

A Great Dwight Student + A Great Dwight Teacher = A Fabulous Segment on “Jimmy Kimmel Live!”

Do you remember a teacher who made a difference in your life? For actress Yara Shahidi — star of TV’s “Black-ish” and “Grown-ish,” 2017 Dwight Global graduate and Harvard student — one such teacher was Yumi Lee, a Dwight AP Calculus teacher. Yara gave Ms. Lee a shout-out on “Jimmy Kimmel Live!” for writing one of her college recommendation letters ... along with Former First Lady Michelle Obama.

An Online School Unlike Any Other

At Dwight Global, the great relationship that Yara had with her math teacher, Ms. Lee, is no exception. Students and dedicated Dwight faculty members connect in small virtual classrooms with no more than 15 students; and teachers are available outside of class for one-on-one tutorials and extra help.

College guidance by Dwight’s expert team of college counselors begins early in grade 9, so that students can plan their high school years and course selections to both maximize their learning and present the most desirable records to colleges.

Online students join their peers on Dwight’s New York campus to participate in residential programs and a wide range of school activities. They also have opportunities to travel and participate in exciting exchange programs with students at Dwight Schools in London, Seoul, Shanghai, and Dubai.

At Dwight Global, a world of possibilities awaits!
